

Thursday, April 17, 1890.

There were 1059 men in line during the parade.

The G. A. R. encampment was not the howling success anticipated.

Spring is acting the coy maiden to perfection. We hope as she grows older she will quit her kittenish ways.

The warden has put up a beautiful iron fence around his premises, and further embellished and beautified the grounds by flag stone walks.

The State Republican does not like to be outdone in philanthropic condolences by the Tribune. We always try to be as generous as our neighbor, and sympathy is so cheap. By the Tribune taking the initiative, we were reminded our shortcomings, hence our tribute to Mr. J. Houston Goodwin.

We hope for the good of the late vendor of cheap jewelry, that Gen. X. Y. Z. of the Philadelphia company will not hear of his performance here. He claimed to be selling over two dozen envelopes of jewelry that the general had apportioned to Jefferson City as her "allotment share" according to population. The Hon. John O'Day may regard it as a significant coincidence that he stretched the amount to fifty-two at one time.

It behooves the republicans of Jefferson City to be up and doing in relation to the meeting of the republican convention of this state. The democratic regime has had no opportunity to view several hundred good republicans at one time. The convention ought to be held here, and all the republicans in the state who can, ought to come. It would be a pleasing beginning to the republican convocation of office holders who will hold forth here for the four years succeeding Francis.

Grand Duke Vladislar, brother of the Czar of Russia, heads a ministerial section, urging the czar to create a parliament, consisting of the representatives of nobility and Czar's well known repugnance to a parliament, and it is sincerely to be hoped that he will listen to reason in time to save his head, as that part of his anatomy is threatened literally and figuratively.

With the wind blowing directly from the southwest, and the building at the penitentiary on the extreme southwest side, the frightful possibilities of a horrible holocaust are at once apparent. Had it not been for our efficient system of water works which the prison officials have so recently adopted, a disastrous conflagration would not doubt have to be chronicled. The governor and inspectors merit the approbation of the entire state in so effectively protecting its property.

The members of the G. A. R. were loud in their praises of the facility with which Jefferson City handled the crowd. It has always been known that Jefferson City could do better in that respect than any city of its size in Missouri, and only offers another illustration of the many reasons why it should have had the democratic convention. Being political headquarters for the democratic party, they ought to hold their political pow wows under the protecting wing of the democratic leaders and not force those holders of the government reins to suspend operations, while they rush off to some extreme end of the state to see to affairs that could be conducted under their political noses to much better advantage. The average democrat loves to ride on a pass.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL

In the death of Samuel J. Randall, the country loses an eminent statesman, a profound thinker and one of the most upright and conscientious citizens of the present day. Thirty-five years ago he entered upon a political career a poor man, and at his death, with all the advantages that naturally come to one so prominent, not one single act of his can be pointed out as having been directed by a selfish motive to gain wealth, and he dies almost as poor as when he entered public life. The democratic party will naturally mourn the loss of this distinguished citizen and democrat, but, in his death, a thorn is removed from their side. Able, fearless and conscientious in his convictions, he has fought for the principles of a protective tariff, against almost a united democracy. In his death there is no one upon whose shoulders the mantle of this eminent statesman can fall, and it consequently leaves the protectionists in the democratic party without a leader.

In his speech of welcome to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Gov. Francis again demonstrated his ability to say the right thing at the right time and place. While opposing Mr. Francis as the nominee of the democratic party, and while the gimblet hole politician in and about the capitol and Jefferson City were abusing him, we took occasion to say that he should be nominated because he possessed the brains, the youth and the vigor and progressive ideas that were so necessary to place Missouri in its proper light before the world. That judgment has been vindicated beyond the measure of our fullest expectations. In every position where placed he has proven himself equal to the emergency. In his treatment of the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, he has added many friends to his list, as every one had a kind word for him before he left.

Now, at this time comes young William, emperor of Germany, and deposes that he is able to run his own country without advice from anybody, and urges as a matter of reform (?) a reduction of the powers of the Bundes rath, and concentrating power in a ministry controlled by himself. How that differs from constituting himself the only great mogul, we are unable to understand. The princes of the German empire are endeavoring to reduce the largeness of his head by well directed opinions levelled at it, but so far have failed. His latest fad is to kiss and be friends with France and enter Paris amid the cheers of the populace. William dearly loves fuss and feathers, and if he is not careful will sacrifice his throne and be escorted to the borders of his country with a large and imposing pageant in his retinue to see that he gets there. His idea is to reduce the standing army except along the borders of Russia, and give up Alsace and Lorraine as a sort of neutral territory, all foreign powers to pledge themselves not to invade it. He no doubt thinks the people will be so grateful to him for Great I Am, all to himself.

Congressman Bland says the house committee has consented to the appropriation of $50,000 for the construction of a lock and dam at Shipley Shoals. Mr. Bland has been in congress nearly sixteen years, and if he has any influence there it is strange an appropriation has not been made. His saying the house "committee has consented to an appropriation" does not improve the Osage, or satisfy the people of his district, who are interested in the Osage river improvement.

Notice of Final Settlement.
Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Magdalena Steininger, deceased, will make final settlement of his accounts with said estate as such administrator at the next term of the probate court of Cole county, Missouri, to be held at the City of Jefferson, in said county, on the 21 Monday of May, A. D., 1890.
J. N. STEININGER,
Administrator.

MARION ITEMS.

The steamer Helena passed up Sunday on her first trip and left Taggart & Elliott a lot of goods. They shipped a lot of poultry on her down trip Monday.

Mr. Joseph English, the stock king of Montauk county, was in town Monday.

N. W. Bick, the traveling salesman of Alkire Grocery company of St. Louis, was in town Tuesday and sold Taggart & Elliott a bill of groceries.

Mr. F. M. Taggart and David Lindsey, Capt. J. Glenn, Capt. Ed Stuart, C. C. Taggart and his sons and Fred Rithel, and Fred Honsucker and Gilmer Taggart and Arthur Dawson, J. W. Hickman and wife of Marion attended the grand army encampment at the Capital Thursday. All came back well pleased with their 2 days sojourn in the city.

The school meeting passed off quietly Tuesday. Mr. Israel Garant, one of our best farmers was elected director.

Mr. Henry Baushausen was elected road overseer of this district. Henry is a good one.

Mr. F. M. Taggart is putting on some good improvement on his lots in this place.

Mr. F. M. Taggart went to Alton, Ill., on business and returned Friday.

Mr. Loid Garnett and his brother, Israel, caught four red foxes last Saturday.

Mr. F. M. Taggart and David Lindsey attended the Grand Army Post at Centretown last Saturday.

We are glad to learn that Capt. John Glenn is up again.

Mr. Thomas Backner of Montauk county, delivered a fine lot of fruit trees here the other day.

SCRUGS

Damp, dull weather.

Farmers must through sowing oats.

Miss Follie Miller stopped in Jeff City last week.

The aged parents of Mrs. D. Coffelt started for their home in Northwest Missouri last Monday.

Mr. C. F. Buente has the foundation laid for another room, which he is preparing to attach to his establishment.

Mr. Daniel Coffelt says he is very thankful to the individual for placing his single trees in his reach, also if they are in the way, he would no longer.

Those who attended the reunion so far as heard from, report a good time.

Miss Sadie Coyner returned home after several days away with friends.

Mr. Albert Distler will move in his new residence this week so we hear.

FARM NOTES.

Wherever there is a low, damp, place there should be a ditch or an under layer of drain tile.

Plum trees thrive best on a somewhat heavy soil, though they can be grown also on light sandy locations.

Cherries are an excellent crop to sell, and more trees should be set out. The annual demand is greater than the supply.

Air-laked lime dusted over the ground around young trees serves as a partial protection against some kind of insects.

Trees which bear stone fruit must be grafted early, as the bark will peel off and curl up if it is injured after the sap starts.

Do not use sprouted seed of any kind. Potatoes that are kept at too high a temperature will sprout, which injures them to a certain extent.

On many farms it would be wiser to start a new garden than to use the old one full of weed seed. So says Waldo P. Brown in the Weekly Tribune.

At this season the wells from which the drinking water is obtained are liable to be polluted with surface water. Gravel around the well and force the surface water away.

Prof. Maynard is quoted as saying that birds do more good than harm to the farmer and orchardist, and that more trees should be planted that they may have a due share of the fruit and leave some for the grower.

In purchasing young trees for spring planting it is best to purchase of some nurseryman in the same latitude or farther north, as those grown to the southward are liable to be too far advanced for safe transplanting.

Trustee's Sale.
Whereas, Harriet L. Brunk, on March 13, 1882, conveyed to Kinsey White as trustee, to secure a note to Wm. Anderson, south west 1-4, sec. 16, township 45, range 13; and,
Whereas, A. H. Workman and Susan M. Workman, on March 6, 1888, conveyed to Prior Leach as trustee, the undivided 1-7 of southwest 1-4 section 16, township 45, range 13, and the southeast of southeast, section 17, township 45, range 13, to secure a note therein described to George R. Brunk; and
Whereas, C. M. Brunk and wife, Lee S. Brunk, conveyed to G. R. Brunk, as trustee, the undivided one-seventh of southwest 1-4, section 16, and the southeast of southeast, section 17, all in township 45, range 13, to secure note to Rebecca McWorkman, all of which said deeds of trust are recorded in the recorder's office of Cole county, Mo.; and
Whereas, all of said notes are over due and unpaid; and
Whereas, the said trustees, Kinsey White, Prior Leach and George R. Brunk, refuse to sell as trustees, now, therefore, as provided by said deeds of trust, and at the request of the legal holders of said notes, I, Thomas B. Mahan, sheriff of Cole county, will sell said real estate to pay said notes at the court house door in Jefferson City on
